WHERE GENERATIONS GREW BY THE WATER

This is more than a house — it's where a family grew, year after year.

Life here was simple in the best way: kids roaming, swimming with the tide, and fishing for flounder, kahawai, and whitebait. The home evolved with them — a three-bedroom layout with practical spaces, and an open plan kitchen, dining, and living area flowing to the front deck with Lake Ōnoke views.

As they grew, so did the home. Downstairs became a rumpus retreat, alongside a woodstore and shed for coastal living. Weekends were for beachcombing, evenings for games and stories.

Out back, a second deck made entertaining easy, with a boat shed ready for days on the water. And always, the backdrop — Lake Ōnoke, winter views to the Kaikōura ranges, wild western shores, and unforgettable sunsets.

After days exploring Ngawi and Cape Palliser Lighthouse, this was home — warm, lived-in, and full of life.

Now, it's ready for its next chapter.

For sale by Tender (unless sold prior), closing Tuesday 12th May 2026 at 1pm.

IMPORTANT NOTE FOR PURCHASERS: Any Consents and Compliance Certificates or Reports that have been made available to the Licensee will be included in the information pack. It is strongly recommended the Purchaser and/or their lawyer review these documents (which may or may not have been made available to the Licensee). The vendor may not have disclosed all information about the property or may have no knowledge of issues that are important or relevant to the purchaser and the Licensee may not have specialist knowledge or expertise to comment on aspects of the property. As such, this document is not represented as including everything that a purchaser 'should' be aware of. The purchaser must not rely on this information as complete or accurate and must make their own enquiries and seek professional advice in all respects to fully satisfy themselves as to the condition/suitability of the property and any other matters relevant to the purchaser prior to entering into any contract for sale and purchase.

Understanding Your Title

The information below are some common 'interests' that may be listed on a property title with simple explanations about the restrictions or rights that could affect the property. Some interests, district plan information, LIM information or other information that has come to the Agents attention may be further detailed on the documents supplied. Some documents may not have been made available to the agent such as the LIM report which means the agent may not have been able to verify some information about the property.

These explanations are not intended to be legal advice or to be relied on by a prospective purchaser. Reading and interpreting the documents is a specialist area. It is the purchaser's sole responsibility to ensure they fully understand the title and related documents from their own investigations and independent professional advice, and the purchaser must not rely solely on the information provided by the Agent or Vendor prior to entering into an agreement to purchase the property. It is strongly recommended that the purchaser seeks advice and explanation about the Title, LIM, District Plan and other relevant documents from their own lawyer or registered conveyancer.

Easements

An easement is the granting or benefit of rights in land that do not include possession. Usually easements allow one party to cross another party's land for a particular purpose, such as rights of way, rights to convey water, gas, electricity or telecommunications, or rights to drain stormwater or sewage. The location of such easements will usually be shown on the plan of the property attached to the certificate of title. "Subject to" means the property gives the benefit to another property. "Appurtenant hereto" means the property has the benefit of the easement.

Easements are not always for the benefit of neighbouring land. An easement in gross has no beneficiary. It is usually in the form of a grant to a territorial authority, or a utility company such as Spark or Vector. The territorial authority or utility company will have the right to access the land for maintenance work.

It must be noted that some easements, such as old drainage easements, may not be recorded on the certificate of title, but will usually appear on district plan maps. There are also a number of "universal" easements, such as those protecting against the undermining of a neighbour's property through excavation. These are common law easements, and not normally registered on the title. May affect use of the property so it is highly recommended to investigate further and seek legal advice.

The easements created by Easement Instrument.... are subject to Section 243 (a) Resource Management Act 1991

The reference s243(a) of the Resource Management Act 1991 simply means that the easement created under easement instrumentcannot be surrendered by the owner of the title without prior consent of the council.

Resource Management Act 241(2)

Refers to details in the RMA section 241(2) likely in relation to the subdivision of the property.

Consent Notice pursuant to Section 221 Resource Management Act 1991

A consent notice registered against the Title gives notice of the conditions of the subdivision consent under which the land was subdivided which bind the owners going forward. This may affect your use of the property so it is highly recommended to seek further legal advice and view any relevant documentation.

Lease of Flat 1 & 2

Relate to the cross lease of the property. This may affect your use of the property so it is highly recommended to view memorandum of lease for further details and to seek further legal advice.

Fencing Covenant

Fencing covenants are used by subdividers and developers to enable them to avoid their contribution to a fence between their property and adjoining land, as provided for in the Fencing Act 1978. Fencing covenants are recorded on the certificate of title, but expire at the time of sale of the adjoining land by the first purchaser, or at the end of 12 years. However, the covenant is not automatically removed from the certificate of title. Please note that fencing covenants registered on titles that adjoin Crown lands – for example, reserves – may run with the land. Do not confuse a Fencing Covenant with a Fencing Agreement (below).

Fencing Agreement

Is an agreement between adjoining neighbours to do or not do something that would otherwise be permitted. (It contains rules about fencing etc that must be adhered to by various parties.). May affect use of the property so it is highly recommended to view the relevant document and seek further legal advice if there is a Fencing Agreement registered on the title.

Land Covenant

Contains various rules/regulations in relation to the property as private agreements between parties or imposed by the council. This may affect your use of the property so it is highly recommended to view relevant documentation for specific details and it is recommended to seek further legal advice and a full explanation from your solicitor.

Building Line Restriction

A building line restriction may limit where you can build on the property. Recommended to investigate further based on your requirements for the property and to confirm there are no obvious encroachments from existing dwellings. Note that some building line restrictions may not be included on the title but are included on the District Plan. It may affect your intended use of the property so it is highly recommended to view relevant documentation and to seek further legal/technical advice for the full details.

Marginal Strip

A Marginal Strip is Crown land adjacent to foreshore, lake, rivers or streams greater than 3 metres wide that is sold or otherwise disposed of, the strip of land no less than 20 metres wide is deemed reserved. This means that the owner of the ex-Crown property located adjacent to the waterway does not own the first 20 metres of that property. This may affect your use of the property so it is highly recommended to seek further investigation/technical advice for full details.

Limited as to Parcels

This means that the property has never been properly surveyed and as such the dimensions of the site it refers to are not guaranteed. This is usually not found in the interests but at the top of the title document. If this is on the title it is highly recommended to seek further legal and specialist advice.

Additional Interests/Subject to various acts

Additional interests may not be common interests on a title and the salesperson may not be familiar with the implications of these interests. It is highly recommended to seek further legal/technical advice.

Identifying & Managing Property Risks

Buying a property is a significant investment, and it's essential to be aware of potential risks before making a decision. This guide helps buyers identify key issues in a property and understand the necessary due diligence steps to avoid costly surprises.

It's important to note that real estate agents and vendors are not specialists in identifying structural, environmental, or legal issues. While they may provide general advice, it is important to seek professional advice from building inspectors, surveyors, and legal experts and other specialist reports.

Recognising Property 'Warning Signs'

If a property exhibits any of the following warning signs, further investigation is necessary before proceeding with a purchase.

Structural and Material Concerns:

- Monolithic or Weatherside cladding – These materials may pose water-tightness issues.
- Cracks, chips, or bubbling of cladding – Could indicate structural or moisture problems.
- Flat roof or narrow/no eaves – May require more maintenance and have lower weather resistance.
- Recessed or sloping windows sealed by silicone – Check for leaks or improper sealing.
- Concealed guttering and downpipes – Hidden drainage systems can lead to undetected damage.
- Complex architectural designs – More intricate designs may require specialized inspections.

Interior and Plumbing Issues:

- Signs of dampness – Look for mold, water stains, or musty odors as potential moisture indicators.
- Scrim wall linings – These older materials can be a fire hazard.
- Asbestos materials – Professional assessment may be required for safety.
- Dux Quest plumbing – This type of plumbing has known failure risks and may need replacement.

Structural Risks and Compliance Issues:

- Decks over 1m in height – Ensure they meet stability and council compliance standards.
- Retaining walls over 1.5m – Structural integrity should be carefully assessed and CCC requirements.
- Subsidence concerns – Investigate land stability and foundation strength.
- Obscure boundary lines – Verify property boundaries to avoid legal disputes.

Legal and Unpermitted Work:

- No flashings on windows or doors – This can lead to leaks and weatherproofing failures.
- Signs of unauthorized work – Ensure all renovations or extensions have council approvals.
- Built in the early 1990s to early 2000s – Some properties from this era may have known building issues such as untreated timber.
- Possible criminal activity (drug use/manufacturing) – Look for signs such as chemical odors, covered vents, or unusual wiring.

In-house complaints & disputes resolution procedures

In accordance with Rule 12 Real Estate Agents Act (Professional Conduct and Client Care Rules) 2012

“Our goal at The Network is to give you such a high level of service that the idea of complaints and disputes won't even cross your mind. Of course no-one can be perfect so should you wish to make a complaint, our aim is to provide a better outcome through our in-house procedures than either party could ever achieve using mediation.”

Introduction

All licensed real estate agents are required to have a written in-house complaints and dispute resolution procedure. Our procedure is set out below.

You do not have to use our complaints and resolution procedure. You may make a complaint directly to the Real Estate Agents Authority at any time. You can make a complaint to the Real Estate Agents Authority even if you choose to also use our procedures.

In-house Complaints and Dispute Resolution Procedures

Our complaints and dispute resolution procedures are designed to provide a simple and personalised process for resolving any complaint you might have about the service you have received from our agency.

STEP 1: Call us and speak to the manager. [Ben Dellabarca – (0215343334, ben@thenetwork.co.nz)] Tell the manager who you are complaining about and what your concerns are. Let the manager know what you would like done about your complaint.

STEP 2: The manager may ask you to put your complaint in writing so that he or she can investigate it. The manager will need a brief period of time to talk to the team members involved. We promise to come back to you within 10 working days with a response to your complaint. That response may be in writing. As part of that response we might ask you to meet with members of our team to discuss the complaint and try to agree a resolution.

STEP 3: If we are unable to come to an agreed resolution after a meeting, or if you don't wish to meet with us, then we will provide you with a written proposal to resolve your complaint.

STEP 4: If you do not accept our proposal, please try and advise us in writing within five working days. You can, of course, suggest another way of resolving your complaint.

STEP 5: If we accept your preferred resolution, we will attempt to implement that resolution as soon as possible. If we decline your preferred resolution, we may invite you to mediate the dispute.

STEP 6: If we agree to mediate the complaint but don't settle the complaint at mediation, or we do not agree to mediate the dispute, then that will be the end of our process.

Remember: You can still make a complaint to the Real Estate Agents Authority in the first instance and, even if you use these procedures, you can still make a complaint to the Real Estate Agents Authority at any time.

Key things to know about sale and purchase agreements

- A sale and purchase agreement is a legally binding contract between you and the other party involved in buying or selling a property.
- You must sign a written sale and purchase agreement to buy or sell a property.
- You need to read and understand the sale and purchase agreement before you sign it.
- Even if a standard sale and purchase agreement is being used, you should always get legal advice before you sign the agreement and throughout the buying and selling process.
- You can negotiate some of the terms and conditions in a sale and purchase agreement.
- You can include additional clauses, such as what to do if there are special circumstances. Your lawyer plays an important role in providing advice on what the sale and purchase agreement should say.
- A sale and purchase agreement becomes unconditional once all the conditions are met.
- In most cases, the real estate professional is working for the seller of the property, but they must treat the buyer fairly.
- If your real estate professional or anyone related to them wants to buy your property, they must get your written consent to do this. They must also give you a valuation of your property by an independent registered valuer.
- The sale and purchase agreement is only available in English. You may need assistance interpreting it if English is not your primary language.

What a sale and purchase agreement is

A sale and purchase agreement is a legally binding contract between you and the other party involved in buying or selling a property. It sets out all the details, terms and conditions of the sale. This includes things such as the price, any chattels being sold with the property, whether the buyer needs to sell another property first or needs a property inspection and the settlement date.

A sale and purchase agreement provides certainty to both the buyer and the seller about what will happen when.

What's in a sale and purchase agreement

Your sale and purchase agreement should include the following things.

Basic details of the sale

Different sale methods like tender or auction might mean the sale and purchase agreement can look different, but all sale and purchase agreements should contain:

- the names of the people buying and selling the property
- the address of the property
- the type of title, for example, freehold or leasehold
- the price
- any deposit the buyer must pay
- any chattels being sold with the property, for example, whiteware or curtains
- any specific conditions you or the other party want fulfilled
- how many working days you have to fulfil your conditions (if there are any conditions)
- the settlement date (the date the buyer pays the rest of the amount for the property, which is usually also the day they can move in)
- the rate of interest the buyer must pay on any overdue payments (such as being late on paying the deposit or the remaining amount at the settlement date).

General obligations and conditions you have to comply with

The sale and purchase agreement includes general obligations and conditions that you will need to comply with. For example, these may include:

- access rights – what access the buyer can have to inspect the property before settlement day
- insurance – to make sure the property remains insured until the settlement date and outline what will happen if any damage occurs before settlement day
- default by the buyer – the buyer may have to compensate the seller if they don't settle on time, for example, with interest payments
- default by the seller – the seller may have to compensate the buyer if they don't settle on time, for example, by paying accommodation costs
- eligibility to buy property in New Zealand – people who have migrated to New Zealand may not be permitted to immediately buy property or may need to get consent from the Overseas Investment Office.

Your lawyer will explain these clauses to you.

Check...

Always check your sale and purchase agreement with a lawyer before signing.

Buying or selling a property where the owner isn't able to participate, like a mortgagee sale or deceased estate, can mean the real estate professional has limited information about the property. It pays to allow for this when deciding what conditions the buyer and seller might need.

Remember...

Before you sign a sale and purchase agreement, whether you're the buyer or the seller, the real estate professional must give you a copy of this guide. They must also ask you to confirm in writing that you've received it.

Specific conditions a buyer may include

Some buyers will present an unconditional offer, which means there are no specific conditions to be fulfilled. Some buyers will include one or more conditions (that must be fulfilled by a specified date) in their offer such as:

- title search – this is done by the buyer's lawyer to check who the legal owner of the property is and to see if there are any other interests over the property such as caveats or easements
- finance – this refers to the buyer arranging payment, often requiring bank approval for a mortgage or loan
- valuation report – a bank may require the buyer to obtain a valuation of the property (an estimate of the property's worth on the current market) before they agree to a loan
- Land Information Memorandum (LIM) – provided by the local council, this report provides information about the property such as rates, building permits and consents, drainage, planning and other important information
- property inspection – a buyer paying for an inspection provides an independent overview of the condition of the property rather than relying on an inspection that has been arranged by the seller

- engineer's or surveyor's report – similar to the above but more focused on the entire section and the structure of the property
- sale of another home – the buyer may need to sell their own home in order to buy another.

The real estate professional helps the buyer and the seller to include the conditions they each want. Even though the real estate professional works for the seller, they also have to deal fairly and honestly with the buyer. While they're not expected to discover hidden defects, they can't withhold information and must tell the buyer about any known defects with the property. If a buyer needs time to check a property for defects, including a property inspection condition may be important.

What happens after you sign the sale and purchase agreement

Signing the sale and purchase agreement is not the end of the sale or purchase process.

Both parties work through the conditions until the agreement is unconditional

A conditional agreement means the sale and purchase agreement has one or more conditions that must be met by a specified date and before the sale goes through.

The buyer pays the deposit. Depending on what the sale and purchase agreement says, the buyer may pay the deposit when they sign the agreement or when the agreement becomes unconditional. If the deposit is made to the real estate agency, it must be held in their agency's trust account for 10 working days before it can be released to the seller.

An agreement for sale and purchase commits you to buy or sell

Once you've signed the sale and purchase agreement and any conditions set out in it have been met, you must complete the sale or purchase of the property.

The length of time between the conditions being met and the settlement date varies. Settlement periods can be lengthy if the property hasn't been built yet or the sale and purchase agreement includes conditions for one party to buy or sell another property. The real estate professional has obligations to keep you informed of important updates that come up during this time.

Pre-settlement inspection

This is the chance for the buyer to check the property and chattels are in the same condition they were when the sale and purchase agreement was signed and to check that the seller has met any conditions, for example, there is no damage to walls or chattels haven't been removed from the property.

It's important to raise any concerns you find at the pre-settlement inspection with your lawyer and the real estate professional as soon as possible to allow enough time for an issue to be resolved. If it's less than 24 hours before settlement, the vendor may not be obligated to set things right.

Payment of a commission

Once the sale is complete, the seller pays the real estate professional for their services. The real estate agency usually takes the commission from the deposit they're holding in their trust account. The seller should make sure the deposit is enough to cover the commission. The real estate professional cannot ask the buyer to pay for their services if they have been engaged by the seller.

The buyer pays the rest

The buyer pays the remainder of the amount for the property on the day of settlement, usually through their lawyer.

Buying a tenanted property

If the property is tenanted, the agreement for sale and purchase should specify this. It may also contain a specific date for possession that may differ from the settlement date.

If the buyer requires the property to be sold with 'vacant possession', it is the seller's responsibility to give the tenant notice to vacate in accordance with the tenant's legal rights.

It is recommended that you seek legal advice if you are buying a property that is currently tenanted.

What happens if you have a problem

If something has gone wrong, first discuss your concern with the real estate professional or their manager. All agencies must have in-house procedures for resolving complaints.

If you can't resolve the issue with the real estate agency or you don't feel comfortable discussing it with them, you can contact the Real Estate Authority (REA). We can help in a number of ways if your complaint is about the real estate professional. For example, we can help you and the real estate professional or agency to resolve the issue and remind them of their obligations under the Real Estate Agents Act 2008. When you contact us, we'll work with you to help you decide the best thing to do.
